

4th PICH Institute Knowledge Dissemination (White Point, 2004)

Wednesday October 13th, 2004

1930-2130 - Bonnie Stevens (About Kids' Health -- A web-based vehicle at the Hospital for Sick Children for disseminating knowledge on pain to children and families)

Thursday October 14th, 2004

0730-0830 - Breakfast

0830-0930 - Christina Spellman (Charitable foundation grants: The art and craft of private funding)

0930-0945 - Break

0945-1045 - Pauline Dakin (Communicating with the media: Getting the word out!)

1045-1100 - Break

1100-1200 - Celeste Johnston (Communicating with policy makers)

1200-1315 - Lunch

1315-1415 - Anita Unruh (Writing for success: Getting your research published)

1430-1530 - Christine Chambers (Getting funded: Strategies for preparing successful graduate scholarship applications)

1530-1545 - Break

1545-1645 - Presentations by trainees on knowledge dissemination

- Lindsay Uman (Bringing it all together: A student's perspective on conducting a systematic review)
- Faizah Visram (Developing and disseminating a common definition for a misnamed condition - "Growing Pains")
- Meghan McMurtry (Comments on commentaries: Getting your message across)
- Jen Stinson (e-Ouch: Technology-Enabled Knowledge Translation)

1645-1700 - Break

1700-1800 - Presentations by trainees on knowledge dissemination

- Jill MacLaren (Dissemination of behavioral pain management techniques to healthcare professionals)
- Lara Spagrud (Reaching out to parents, schools and health districts: Disseminating information about interventions for children who are fearful of getting needles)
- Tiina Piira (Knowledge dissemination across disciplines and fields: Whose knowledge is it anyway?)
- Simon Beggs (Dissemination as propagation: "The best ideas are common property")

1800 - Break

1930 - Reception for IFPP